40 Proud Years of Service to Survivors of Gender-Based Violence

A Message from CEO Yasmeen Hamza

Dear Friends and Supporters,

This year, Womankind is proud and honored to celebrate a major milestone: 40 years of service!

In 1982, a student from Hunter College’s School of Social Work rallied a small group of impassioned community activists to address the lack of services available to Chinese immigrant women experiencing domestic violence in New York City. History was made when the New York Asian Women’s Center (later renamed to Womankind), was born—an organization for Asian women by Asian women during a time when nothing of its kind existed on the East Coast.

Since our founding, we have grown tremendously, but stayed close to our roots, working with and for marginalized communities. In doing so, we have proudly served as a bedrock for New York’s Asian communities. The vision of our founders and all those that followed have guided the organization forward—through good times and challenging ones. As we reflect and look to the future, we reaffirm our commitment to anti-oppression and anti-racism work as central to our mission, vision, and goals:

1. Amplify advocacy work by addressing the inequities that plague our communities to bring about real systemic change at the city, state, and federal levels of government. We will continue to use our power and join forces with community organizations, advocacy groups, legislators, and other passionate advocates to ensure that the voices of survivors are heard.

2. Increase Womankind’s footprint by serving more historically-underserved groups within the AAPI community, which is not a monolith. Therefore, we cannot have a “one size fits all” approach to serving the many diverse populations.

3. Elevate our resource development by diversifying our funding streams, enhancing our community-centric fundraising efforts, and focusing on building sustainable partnerships with value-aligned funders. In order to address the increasingly intersectional and forever changing needs of survivors, growth is essential for deepening and strengthening our programs.

Womankind has persevered through the ups and downs of 1980’s America to today. We could not have done this work without the commitment and passion of staff, board, supporters, and volunteers—past and present—including you. Thank you for your contribution to Womankind’s history.

Moving forward, we have big dreams we want to accomplish to deepen our work with families. We reaffirm that to stop violence, it takes having a long-view, an inter-generational approach, and community-centric solutions. We are building on our four decades of experience to imagine more healing for survivors and activate a world into being that is more just, fair, and safe.

As we celebrate our 40 years of impact, we welcome you to imagine what it means for survivors to thrive and build with us for the years to come!

With great joy,

Yasmeen Hamza
CEO, Womankind

A. After postponing the 2021 Gala VIP Reception due to COVID, guests gathered at LAVO one year later to celebrate honoree, Sandra Leung, Executive VP and General Counsel of Bristol Myers Squibb! She received the Phoenix Woman of the Year in Law award.

B. The Community Ambassadors Program launched during Elder Abuse Awareness Month in June. It aims to build leadership among Chinese and Korean communities (for now) to eradicate gender-based violence (GBV) through community-based education.

C. This AAPI Heritage Month, Associate Director Sasha-Ann Frazer, spoke to 100 guests about WomanKind’s work with Asian survivors of violence at Golden Hour Fest, a music show and fundraiser hosted by the nonprofit, Your Neighborhood Backyard. PHOTO BY MATT INFANTE

D. For Sexual Assault Awareness Month, staff wore our best denim and marched across the Brooklyn Bridge for the annual Denim Day Rally—a tradition we partake in to express solidarity with survivors of sexual violence.

E. CEO Yasmeen Hamza was a panelist on the "We Do Not Break Because We Can Bend" forum at the Ford Foundation Gallery. She spoke about the intersection of gender-based violence with anti-Asian and anti-femme violence; and about our advocacy and direct work with survivors to build a path to healing from compounded trauma. F. In response to SCOTUS overturning Roe vs. Wade in May, WomanKind staff attended the #BanOffOurBodies Rally in NYC in support of abortion rights and reproductive justice.
Helping AAPI Communities Rise Above Violence During Uncertain Times

The J.T. Tai & Co. Foundation was founded in 1983 to support a variety of causes, including higher education, health, and the arts. Since 2014, it has supported Womankind’s general operations and comprehensive direct services for Asian survivors of violence. The Foundation continues to be a steadfast partner. Special thanks to Victoria Hsu, who has been instrumental in strengthening the bridge between Womankind and the Foundation.

In light of the impact of the pandemic and accompanying violence against AAPI people, the Lower Manhattan Community Church gave Womankind a grant. LMCC gives 1/3 of its congregants offerings to outside agencies who have dedicated their lives to feeding the hungry, providing for the impoverished, loving the unloved, and protecting the vulnerable.

The Panda CommUnity Fund of Panda Express announced a $10M pledge over the next five years to uplift national and local nonprofits, with a focus on diverse groups, people of color and marginalized communities. This past AAPI Heritage Month, they allocated $1.5M of this funding specifically to Asian organizations, including Womankind.

Spotify is committed to combatting inequity and works to drive change by providing support to organizations that are working to create racial equity. Spotify’s Racial Equity Donations & Giving Program has pledged $10M—$3M of which are committed to 300 organizations receiving matching donations.

Narges Kakalia Celebrates First Anniversary As Board Chair

In 2021, Womankind warmly welcomed longtime Board Member and former Vice Chair, Narges M. Kakalia, to her new role as Board Chair. She is the Chief Diversity, Equity and Inclusion Officer at Mintz, PC.

What brought you to the organization?
I had known about the wonderful work Womankind (then the NY Asian Women’s Center) was doing. I had witnessed firsthand the impact the work had on women and children in the community, and I wanted to help drive that impact. So when there was an opening on the board in 2010, I jumped at the chance to interview for a position.

What is your priority as Board Chair?
My main goal, always, is to support the work and to broaden and deepen it as much as possible, so we can have even greater impact and reach even more survivors. I also hope that this year we can focus on amplifying our brand and gaining more name recognition in the NYC community and beyond, so that our advocacy efforts are more effective.

What do you like to do for fun?
Homecooking helps me relax and Pilates keeps me strong. I also like photography and am currently teaching myself (yay, YouTube!) digital graphic art on an iPad app called Procreate.
